H.G. Osmus Attends Conference

Howard G. Osmus, manager of Hedges Clinic at Frankfort, attended a three day conference Oct. 8 to 11 at San Francisco, Calif., of the National Association of Clinic Managers. The 35th annual conference was held at the Jack Parr hotel in that city.

Special studies directed to communications as they affect medical groups in their relationship with their patients and the public were discussed at the three day conference.

Alexander Warden, editor and publishers of the Great Falls Tribune, Great Falls, Montana was the keynote speaker. The National Association of Clinic Managers represents some 500 managers throughout the country.

About two months ago the village proposed to furnish material and machinery if the property owners would pool resources to either pay or perform the labor and further agree to maintain the line.

Mayor Stanley Gilmore prepared an agreement which the property owners were requested to sign but there were no signers. Village officials are now in the process of drawing up another agreement, the mayor said, which they hope will be satisfactory. There is still time to do the job this fall, he said, if the preliminaries are disposed of shortly.

Fire Prevention Week: Open House At New Lenox Dept.

Fire departments of the area are joining with those throughout the nation in observing National Fire Prevention Week, which runs from Oct. 8 thru Oct. 14.

The New Lenox department is giving special attention to the period this year and will conclude the week with an open house at the fire station on Church street from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Firemen will exhibit and explain the equipment and answer any questions pertaining to the department according to Chief Frank Vally. People from surrounding communities are invited.

Awards will be made in the evening and refreshments served. Members of the department are making a door-to-door sale of tickets of $1 each in a campaign to raise funds for the purchase of supplies and equipment. Edward Balck, captain, and Carl Meitner, a member, head the committee in charge.

The New Lenox department is manned by volunteers but is operated under a fire protection district. The money derived from this tax source is limited so when a major purchase is made such as the one some months ago when the trustees bought a new truck additional funds are needed to keep up with the needs of the department, it was explained.

Frankfort also is in a fire protection district but Mokena and Orland Park are not. Mokena and Orland Park have new fire houses, built thru public subscription. The fire department or rather the fire protection district at New Lenox has its own building which is also used by the village board for its meetings. The Frankfort department uses the village hall to house its equipment but within the next few years is expected to have quarters of its own. National Fire Prevention Week was inaugurated in 1922 to stress the dangers of fire to the public. The National Fire Underwriters also emphasize fire prevention at the Christmas season and again during Clean-up time in the spring. However, education and training in fire prevention is becoming a year round program, it was pointed out.

Fire Prevention Week always comes in the week that includes Oct. 9. It was on Oct. 9, 1871 that the Chicago Fire began. That conflagration took 250 lives, destroyed 17,430 buildings and other property then valued at $175 million. At today's costs the loss would have run into the billions, it was pointed out. One thing was accomplished, however, America became fire conscious.

Firemen are urging the public to be constant guard against fire. Pictures of the firemen in the area and resumes of the history of each department will be found on another page in this issue.

Boy, 7, Shot In Hunting Accident, Is Recovering

The 7-year-old victim of a hunting accident in Orland township Saturday is reported as recovering in Silver Cross hospital at Joliet.

Michael Hutton, of 206 Mound street, Willow Springs, was struck by the charge from a shotgun in the hands of a 17-year-old youth, Steven Sherman, also of Willow Springs. The pellets struck the youngster in the face, chest, arms and abdomen.

He was rushed to Orland Park where first aid was given by Dr. J.A. Ramonas who ordered him to the hospital. The boy was taken to Silver Cross by Orland Police Commissioner Frank Guetter.

The lad was in surgery for an hour and half for removal of the pellets. It was first believed some of the shot had pierced the walls of the stomach but subsequent surgery determined there was no damage to any vital organs.

Michael was on a hunting trip with his father, Louis, a 10-year-old brother, Frank and Sherman. The party was hunting in the vicinity of U.S. 45 and 183rd street.

The Sherman youth, carrying ing a 20-gauge shotgun, later explained that he saw something moving behind some bushes and believing it was a squirrel, fired. The distance was approximately 100 feet.

N. Lenox Board Seeks Street Funds

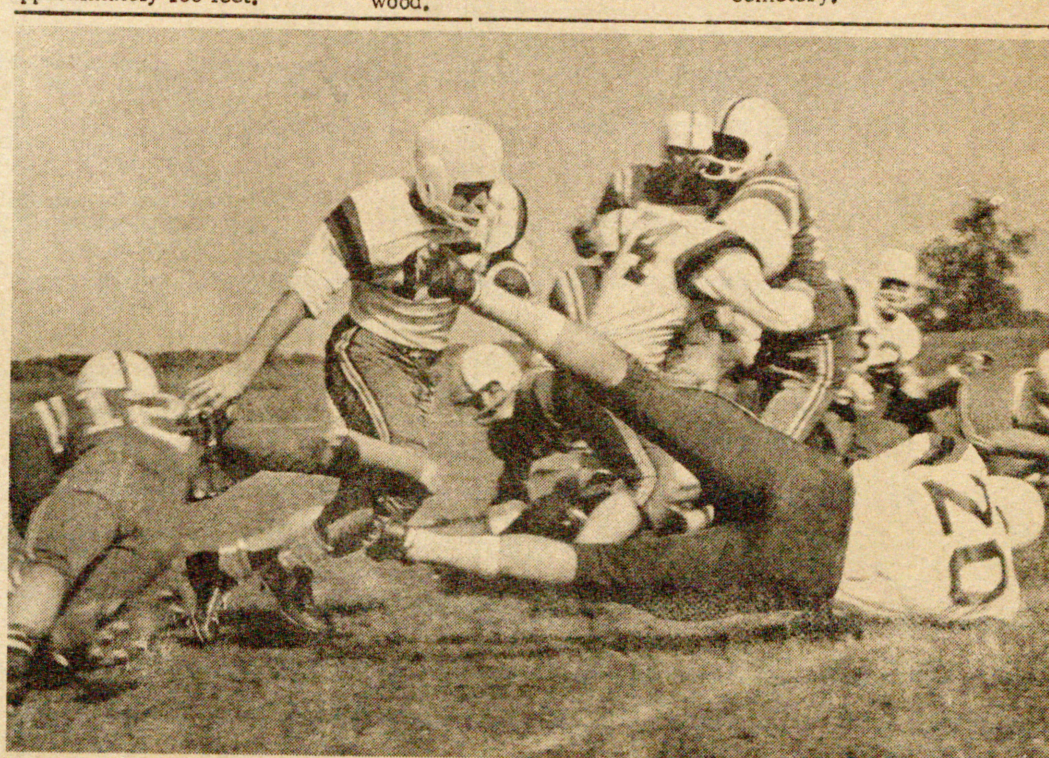

The New Lenox village board is to discuss a street rehabilitation program when it meets next Wednesday night. The board agreed at its session last week to meet again on Oct. 18 to talk over the street situation. Trustee Eugene Hunt, head of the street department, reports that most of the streets in the village have been repaired. They have been scarified graded and stone added but no oil was added, it was explained, because the state will not approve oiling streets after Sept. 15 and this work was done thru the use of motor fuel tax money.

New Lenox has spent over $10,000 from its share of the motor fuel tax on roads this year, besides contributions from the general fund. It expects to have about $10,000 in motor fuel tax money available next spring. Hunt said he would oil and chip streets next spring, after the frost is out of the ground.

N. Lenox Fire Dept. Young But Is Well Equipped

The New Lenox fire department is one of the younger ones of the area. It held its first organizational meeting Aug. 4, 1942 at the Haven grade school with 30 men present.

The first meeting was conducted by Frank Vally. A motion was carried to hold future meetings on the second Thursday of each month.

Those present at the initial meeting were:

Leonard Anderson, C.M. Batson, Ernest Pfeiffer, Stanley Plus, Everett Merfeld, Hermann Torrence, Albert G. Marti, Harold Cutler, R. Melvin Whitaker, Wilbur Walsh, Joe Ludden, George Vally, Ted Buckler, Joseph Ingram, Frank Vally, Stanley Ekedahl, Anthony Vacker, George Redman, Harry Kolhagen, Jimmy Petrie, John Loucks, Harry Stevenson, Wayne Chesmore, Frank Ludden, Harry Werner, Ted Rowsell, Chris Kruspe, Lee Frey, Tom Smith and Roy Pfeiffer. The meeting was conducted by Frank Vally. A motion was made to hold future meetings on the second Thursday of each month. Among those who attended the first meeting and are still active in the department include George Vally, Joseph Ingram, Frank Vally and Stanley Ekedahl.

It was announced by the trustees of the Fire Protection District, of which the local department is a member, that the first officers were Fred Scheel, president; John Francis, secretary; Ed. Haney, treasurer; Frank Vally, chief and Ernest Pfeiffer, assistant chief. First officers of the department elected were; Tom Smith, president; Hermann Torrence, vice-president; Wayne Chesmore, secretary; Everett Merfeld, treasurer; Leonard Anderson, sergeant-at-arms. Due to Wayne Chesmore leaving for the service his duties of secretary were taken over by Stanley Ekedahl.

The first fire truck was purchased late in August of 1942. It was a Ford with a 500 gallon per minute front mounted pump which carried 350 gallons of water and 200 feet of hose; also 100 feet of one inch booster hose mounted on a reel. In October of that same year space was leased in the Wilbur Walsh garage to store the truck.

The department joined the Illinois Firemen's Association in March, 1943 and was incorporated in the State of Illinois as a non-profit organization in May, 1945. They are a charter member of the Desplaines Valley Firemen's Mutual Aid Association. The object and purpose of the association is the mobilization of forces to help one another, especially in case of fire or emergency beyond the facilities or control of any one department and for mutual education and advancement in the art of fire extinguishment and fire protection.

First fire siren was purchased by the New Lenox Civic Club for the fire department and was mounted on a pole at the rear of Wilbur Walsh's service station. A new ten horsepower Federal all direction siren was received in March 1959 and installed on a pole at the back of the present fire station to replace the first siren which was worn out.

Due to additional equipment and fire trucks a new firehouse was started under construction in 1947 and completed the following year. It is of brick and concrete block 30 x 50 feet in length and located on Church street, South of route 30 on property acquired by the Fire Protection District. An addition to the fire house was built in 1954 which included a meeting room, kitchen, two washrooms and a shower for the firemen. A new stove and refrigerator was received which completed the kitchen for adequate use.

Following the purchase of the first fire truck the second one was added in 1946; an emergency truck used to carry inhalator, First Aid kit etc. was purchased as was a 2500 watt portable electric generator with floodlights to be carried in the truck. Other equipment includes a 1200 gallon tank truck; E & J resuscitator-inhalator, a gift from the New Lenox Lions Club; rotating red beacon lights installed in the three fire trucks. The latest piece of equipment, a John Bean high pressure fog volume pump, was purchased in February 1961. It is mounted on a Ford tilt cab chassis.

First fire phones installed were in the homes of Frank Vally chief and Otto Bormet, assistant chief. Later additional phones were added and placed in the fire station; Otto Bormet's garage; New Lenox Lumber yard and in the home of Gene Krohn. The department felt with the additional phones they could give better service and coverage in answering calls. Otto Bormet was appointed assistant chief in 1943 and Dale Drake was appointed second assistant chief in 1960, which positions they still hold at present.

There are 40 active members to date with Frank Vally, chief. Officers of the department include Stanley Ekedahl, president; LaVerne Brown, vice-president; Joseph Ingram, secretary and George Vally, treasurer. The following members serve as captains; Gene Krohn, Wade Krohn and Edward Falck. Lieutenants, Stanley Ekedahl, Edward Piersing and Paul Bachman, Dale Krohn also serves as an engineer.

Mokena Firemen Formed Department 44 Years Ago

The earliest records of fire protection for the village of Mokena started in 1917 when the first fire department was organized with some 30 members. Officers of the department included Fred C. Mau, fire marshal; C. Schenkel, assistant marshal; E. C. Sippel, treasurer and W. E. Washburn, clerk.

When the fire alarm was sounded the volunteer firemen answered the call with the following equipment; 300 feet of 3/4 inch hose mounted on a hose cart, which was pulled by the men; six rubber buckets, two red flags, two red light lanterns and four white light lanterns.

This hose cart, one could say, was a legacy. The cart was on hand for years before a regular fire department was organized. From information available fires were fought on a catch-as-catch-can basis prior to the organization of a department. When a blaze was discovered the townspeople turned out and fought it. Volunteers brought up the hose cart and this together with the efforts of those armed with buckets provided the available protection.

In 1923 Herman Schweser was elected as chief. During that same year the first firemen picnic was held in July 22 and also a dance which netted the department $263.38 to purchase further equipment. Three years later the present siren was purchased and the following year 1933, a used model A chassis was purchased for $75. Another first took place when a new fire truck, including equipment, was purchased for $338.35 that same year.

With the revision of by-laws in 1945 the name of the organization was changed to the Mokena Community Volunteer Fire Department with Herman Schweser as chief; Barney Hostert as assistant chief; Harold Cooper, secretary; John Scarth, chairman; Everett Cooper, treasurer; and William Semmler, publicity chairman. Those elected to serve on the board of directors were; Paul Lembke, Henry Yunker and Peter Mancke as county directors and Harold Miller, Willard Martie, Morris Larson as directors in the village. Another piece of equipment, the present pumper, was purchased at this time for $4,967.

Reorganization of the department was made in 1956 with the following men holding offices. James Marti, president; Stanley Williams, secretary; Eric Book, treasurer and directors Russell Lauffer, Walter Kopp, Alvin Kohl, Carroll Roberts, Arthur Hostert and Raymond Klieriem. Arthur Hostert was elected fire chief and Carroll Roberts as assistant.

A need for an inhalator was determined during the spectacular, former Shopping Bag, foodliner fire in 1956, and the same was purchased along with blue lights for the firemen's cars. The inhalator has been used many times since its purchase; the first call for it was at the home of Robert Mattsey on First street.

Due to lack of space with purchasing of additional fire trucks and equipment during the years the members of the department felt the need for a new firehouse and the present building was erected in 1959 which provides adequate space and is also an asset to the community.

Election of officers was held about a month ago with Stanley Williams serving as president; Kenneth Warner, secretary; Fred Werner, treasurer;

Mokena Community Volunteer Fire Department

New Lenox Volunteer Fire Department

Robert Rust, John Schuch, Carroll Roberts, Martin Medema, Raymond Bernard and Fred Clark as directors. Fire department officers include Carroll Roberts, chief; Fred Rauch Jr., assistant; Roy Newton and Martin Medema, captains and Kenneth Warner and John Rosensner, lieutenants.

Equipment to date includes two pumps, emergency truck, tank truck and an inhalator.

The owner of the theater in which Abraham Lincoln was shot, John T. Ford, was a prominent figure in theatrical circles of his day. He also had properties in Baltimore and Philadelphia.

Suggest Home Building As High School Study

BY HARRY G. WALLENBERGH

Carl Sandburg's Home Economics department chairman, Mrs. Hilda Geuther, in collaboration with Marjorie Savage, associate professor of home economics, Western Michigan university, have recently published a monograph in the ILLINOIS TEACHER OF HOME ECONOMICS, "Teaching Housing in Senior High School."

Mrs. Geuther, who is also Curriculum Coordinator at Sandburg, considers this project an important part of the 1961-62 curriculum in Home Economics.

In this monograph the teaching of housing in senior high school, is developed in five parts: economic, sociological and psychological aspects; the role of government in housing; basic construction factors; suggested teaching methods in housing, and to teach or not to teach controversial issues.

Under the heading of economics, sociological, and psychological aspects, the authors discuss the population influence on the housing market, especially in view of the mushrooming population of today. The phenomenon of the public houses is considered in relation to the inflation and deflation in our economy with particular attention directed to the house buyer.

In the role of government in housing, the history of the government in this area is traced back to 1892 when, for the first time, congress provided money to alleviate slum conditions, up to the present Federal Housing Administration.

Considerable material on basic construction factors is made available. This study included the various technical elements going into the building of a house.

The authors feel that in the teaching of home economics of ten too much emphasis has been placed on the home furnishing aspect. Various surveys among graduates of home economics courses as well as professional groups, indicate that there is a urgent need to include the teaching of housing in our high school economics course. As our population becomes increasingly urban it is imperative that our young home-makers develop knowledge and skills in areas previously considered solely a man's job.

In these days of increasing government role in housing, the authors point out, the life of every class member will be affected by the agencies concerned with housing. In their to teach or not to teach controversial issues, this is considered against a background of teacher hesitancy to go into government problems in class. Advice on how to go about teaching such issues is pointed out to the beginning teacher as well as to the seasoned instructor.

Mrs. Geuther and Miss Savage will discuss the remaining major construction factors and the problems related to the financing of housing in a later issue. The writers will also include a discussion of Mobile Homes, and the problems related to this rather modern housing situation.

Frankfort Volunteer Fire Department

Orland Park Volunteer Fire Department

38 Volunteer Firemen Serve Frankfort

With the Frankfort volunteer fire department in existence for 39 years, a colorful history up to the present day department comprises its story for Fire Prevention Week.

A hand cart and fire hoses, with the late Henry Eisenbrandt as fire chief, was the beginning of Frankfort's fire fighters in 1922. At this time the late Max Hass was mayor. Walter Pfaff, present village clerk, was the clerk then, with six village trustees, the late Charles Scheer, the late Fred Marti, the late Henry Luhring, the late Barney Zechlin and Henry Bretter and Frank Eisenbrandt.

The village treasurer was Charles Balchowsky and Otto Herschbach was the village tapper. The board of health was comprised of Dr. W. V. Hedges and the late William Koerner and the late Phillip Stellwagen. Village officers were the members of the volunteer fire brigade in 1922 and after each village board meeting, a fire department meeting was held.

In 1923, the first fire truck was purchased with Pfaff going to Chicago to drive it back to Frankfort. When this truck was put into retirement, Pfaff purchased it from the village and still uses it today for his personal errands.

The year 1923 also saw the re-organization of the fire department at which time 38 men volunteered their services. The present department still has 38 members. Mr. Luhring was appointed chief during the re-organization. In 1938 one of the pumps, which is still in use, was purchased. Mayor George Sangmeister and Pfaff drove the pumper home from Chicago.

Fred Kohlhaugen, present fire chief, became head of the department in 1947. His assistant chiefs are Lynn Kohlhaugen and Orville Schroeder. Wendell Morrison is captain and Fred Breymer is the lieutenant.

Equipment in the department includes two pumps, a tank truck and an emergency unit. The department is supported by tax money from the fire district which went into effect on June 29 of this year. Prior to this, it was supported by money-raising events and contributions.

Chief Kohlhaugen said money-raising events will be continued in order to lighten the burden on the taxpayer. Volunteer fire department meetings are held once a month, on the fourth Tuesday.

Attends FHA Leadership Meeting

Orland Fire Dept. Serves Area 61 Years

The fire department for the village of Orland Park was organized in 1890 with a hose mounted on a reel as the first equipment. The first firehouse was also built at this time.

Fire chiefs serving the department starting in 1929 with Carl Quiggley as the first chief, are John Helenhouse 1931-1941; George Steinhagen, 1942; Melvin Doogan, who served for a short term; William Young, 1951; Paul Voss Jr., 1953-1957 and the present chief Arthur Granat, who took office in 1957.

Present officers on the department besides the chief are Jerome Eckert, assistant chief; Gerald Klotz, secretary and Dorsey Towner, treasurer.

The Orland Park Woman's club purchased the first inhalator for the department and the fire department auxiliary provided the second one. Besides the above mentioned equipment the department has two pumps and a rescue squad.

Due to the need for larger quarters a new fire house was built in 1960 on Beacon street which is of brick exterior. The village of Orland built an addition to the building during the past year for new quarters for the village board.

The new fire house at Orland Park is one of the most modern in the area and was built thru funds raised by public subscription. The department, which like the others serving the suburban communities, was organized on a volunteer basis. It serves a large area.

Its equipment is modern and the men meet regularly for training.

Cooperate With Firemen

Fire Prevention Week -- we are now in the midst of it -- is a fitting time in which to congratulate the fire departments for their efforts to make communities safer thru elimination of fire hazards.

In New Lenox, Frankfort, Mokena, Orland Park, Homer, Lockport and Lemont fire protection is given by volunteer departments. This means there are scores of men who give generously of their time and efforts, often at risk of limb or life, to serve their neighbors.

In these materialistic times when it seems that most people are averse to turning a hand unless paid for it, the public service performed for free by the volunteer is refreshing.

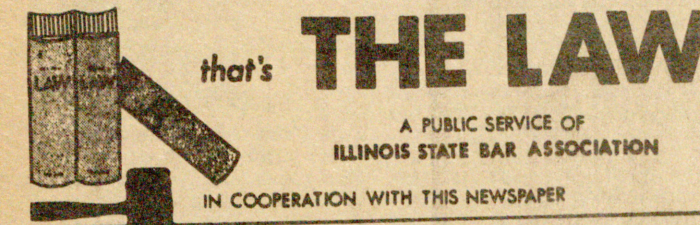

The least the public can do in return is to cooperate fully with the firemen, and support them in their campaigns to raise funds with which to buy supplies and equipment for the departments.

By cooperating we mean that all of us should keep our homes and business places free of rubbish and flammable material as well as make a conscious effort to practice fire safety rules daily. We also should keep in mind that fire prevention should be a year round endeavor and not limited to a day or week.

If you have a problem which could be translated into a fire hazard or need information concerning safety rules for fire prevention we suggest you get in touch with your fire department and get help and information.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters says fire prevention efforts are bearing fruit but points out that one can never relax in this fight, that the fight against fire and its causes demands a continuing and all-out effort.

The pitiful thing about it is that most fires are preventable. What are you doing to prevent fire from breaking out at your home, business or plant?

If you ever sit as a juror through a hard-fought trial, you will probably be impressed with the frequent objections made by the lawyers on each side to the evidence produced by the other side. You may well come away believing that most of these objections are frivolous, and that the rules of evidence law are outmoded relics of days gone by, serving only to exclude proper evidence for technical reasons.

The rules of evidence enforced in Illinois courts are the product of many years of experience and growth. These rules are found in our statutes and in the decisions of the Illinois Supreme and Appellate courts.

If you understand some of the more basic principles underlying our evidence law, you will more readily appreciate why lawyers make objections during a trial, and why the judge often sustains their objections and excludes testimony or evidence.

RELEVANCY AND MATERIALITY

First, evidence must be relevant and material to the issues raised in the case. When a lawyer objects that evidence is "immaterial" or "irrelevant", he means that the evidence has nothing to do with the facts which are in dispute in the case, or that the evidence has no value in helping the judge or jury determine the facts. He contends that the evidence offered, even if correct, is not pertinent.

For example, if one of the issues in a case is whether Joe Hills was careless in driving his car on June 12, when he ran into John Carey's car, it is irrelevant that Joe is careful in using a rifle, and it is immaterial that John's car is green.

Thus, the principle of permitting only relevant and material matters to be introduced in evidence is a timesaver, and helps to keep trials free from unimportant issues, which might tend to obscure the real issues in the case and to mislead the judge or jury.

RELIABILITY

The second basic principle is that of reliability. The most important application of this "Hearsay Rule". When a lawyer asserts that testimony is "hearsay", he means that the witness is testifying to what someone previously told him. The witness has no personal knowledge of the facts he is testifying to; all he can say is that someone else told him about them. Hearsay testimony is excluded because of its fundamentally unreliable character, and because there is no opportunity to cross-examine the person who made the statement in the first instance.

AUTHENTICITY

The third basic principle of evidence law is that of authenticity. When a lawyer objects that "the proper foundation has not been laid" for testimony or documents offered, he means that it has not yet been shown that the evidence is authentic, the "real thing".

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

Life is not just a bowl of cherries . . . regardless of what the song writers say, nor is it candy bars and doughnuts, nor hamburgers and cokes.

The Illinois Medical Society spokesmen say that a way to preserve and prolong life is to follow "sound nutritional practices and good eating habits." And the time to start such a program is in childhood.

At a meeting last week at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb the subject was discussed at considerable length by speakers at a conference on nutrition under the joint sponsorship of the committee on nutrition of the Illinois State Medical Society and the Illinois Nutrition Committee.

It was suggested that school lunch programs be utilized to change the food habits of youths for the better.

One speaker pointed out that teenagers "have inquiring minds, tremendous drives, an urge for personal independence and many opportunities to make choices and decisions for themselves."

He could have added they have pretty good appetites and how to guide them in their eating can be quite a chore. The point of having opportunities to make decisions for themselves tells the story in a nutshell.

Give most of the teens this department has observed the opportunity of picking their provender and you know what they will order -- hamburger, potato chips and a cola drink.

Sometimes they vary the drink and take a milkshake or a malt.

Those who get their lunch at school get a balanced meal, whether they want it or not. One of the complaints heard at the DeKalb meeting was that sometimes school lunchrooms are so crowded that students turn to candy bars and doughnuts to ally the pangs of hunger.

There are many youngsters that suffer from malnutrition, the records show, and it doesn't make any difference whether their parents are rich or poor... the kids just don't eat the things that are beneficial.

The worst of it is, the nutrition people point out, is that the eating habits acquired when young are often retained when they are grown and contribute to the fact there are a lot of unhealthy persons.

It is also the basis of the saying, "fat boy, fat man." Most girls don't want it said "fat girl, fat woman," so many of them go to extremes, skipping potatoes, bread and milk... sometimes entire meals... and then lash into goody sweets in a big way.

The experts in nutrition talk about making nutrition a science to be taught in school and use the lunchroom as a laboratory. Probably a lot of students would go for such a course because of the lab work and raids on family larders would then be described as homework. Extracurricular activities in this field would include between-meal snacks.

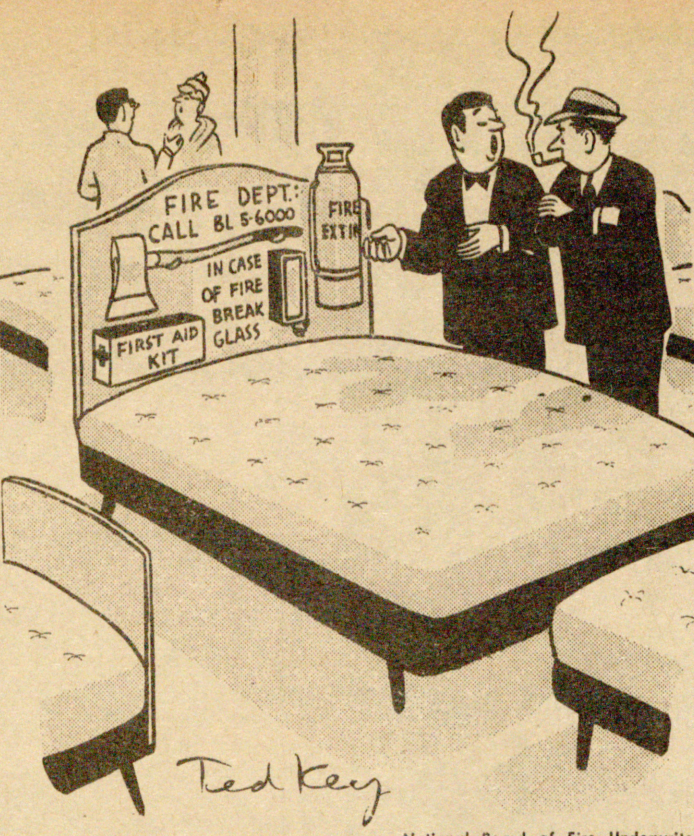

This might work but we have another suggestion. Why not launch a campaign banning regular and well-balanced meals . . . and forbid, absolutely forbid teenagers from eating same.

That would give them a chance to assert their independence and the chances are they would eat balanced meals or bust. And it is not likely they would burst. The human body is pretty tough.

There was a news dispatch from Japan last Thursday that told of a man teacher who apparently found the sight of a class of boys eating peaches was not conducive to good teaching. (Eating fresh peaches is a messy job.) When they ignored his order he dusted off his hands, picked up a baseball bat and in brisk fashion proceeded to rap the noggins of his students.

We venture to say that the next time he gives a notice to his class to knock-off on the peaches or anything else he found displeasing that he would get ready obedience, especially if he had a ball bat close at hand.

We do not recommend use of a ball bat to mend the eating habits of our young. Unless one is careful and makes certain that he is holding the trademark up the right way, the use of baseball bats as disciplinary tools could be expensive. One is too apt to break a lot of bats.

THE TRANSFORMING POWER Deal bountifully with thy servant that I may live and observe thy word.

Open my eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law I am a sojourner on earth; hide not thy commandments from me! My soul is consumed with longing for thy ordinances at all times (Ps. 119: 17-20)

When I was starting high school, my teachers thought that I was mentally slow. It was an effort for me to get my work done; I was falling further and further behind the rest of the class. One day however, a wiseteacher noticed that I was having trouble seeing the lesson. She sent me to an eye specialist.

With the first pair of glasses the world was transformed. My eyes were opened, and once again I could see the majestic sweep of the sun like a chariot across the blue firmament. Clouds danced and played on the fabric of the sky. Trees were green for me. The greatest wonder of all was to see the faces of people. No longer were voices coming from hazy patches of light, but they became associated with individual faces.

This same transforming power enters into the life of every man when he accepts Jesus Christ as his Savior. Life takes on a depth and a dimension of meaning which were unknown. His love assists us in the building of a more fruitful life in his service. Why God has done this for us, we cannot really know. But, we do know that the transforming power of Jesus Christ is a gift to us from God's infinite love and compassion for us. It is the constant miracle of love within us.

Prayer: We seek Thy presence, O Lord, in this our life that we might know Thy love and find our lives transformed into lives of service. We know that only in Thee have our lives meaning, and we pray for Thy compassion to be with us, for we pray in the name of our Redeemer, Amen.

Observers of the steel industry expect to soon see production running at 10 million tons a month. The Thompson Works of U.S. Steel opened five open hearth furnaces which had been down for over a year.

Aluminum prices were reduced a few weeks ago, but it is expected that this is a temporary price adjustment brought about by short term competitive situations.

In July the Federal reserve board industrial production figures were at an all time peak.

Railroad stocks have been showing considerable strength. The traffic volume in August was greater than that of a year earlier for the first time this year. Traffic men are predicting a progressive improvement over 1960. Railroad securities have been low reflecting business conditions and the attitude of investors to this field. Studies on investment and speculative potentials in the railroad field are now appearing quite often.

Business journals and comment seem to show a greater belief that a boom can be expected early in 1962. A record volume of retail sales are expected for the fourth quarter.

The leading financial men of the world have been meeting in Vienna with plans to take steps which strengthen credit standing of nations which are members of the International Monetary Fund. The plan is to increase its resources by more than $5 billion. These additional funds are coming from the western nations and Japan. In addition West Germany and Italy have agreed to add to the I.M.F. holdings of marks and lire.

This is another move to counter speculative capital movements from country to country. These capital movements often aggravate situations where a country has permitted its credit position to be impaired by lack of internal financial discipline.

It will be recalled that we had quite a run on our gold holdings about a year ago. Some of our more excitable financial circles predicted dire things. The run was stopped thru official aid between the central banking systems of the western world.

It should be remembered that the modern "cold war" can hit from many angles of economic

The Farm Bureau Farm Management Service in Illinois is a nonprofit cooperative organization of farmers working with the University of Illinois College of Agriculture in making a farm business analysis service available to Illinois farmers. This year, 5,638 Illinois farmers are enrolled from every Illinois county. Any farmer wanting help with farm records and a farm analysis comparison to check on his farm efficiency can enroll. Membership for 1962 is on a first - come, first - served basis. Call my office for details.

Farm records help farmers get the jump on use of new ideas that really pay. Farmers who study their records know which new ideas are profitable long before their competitors who do not study their businesses. Farmers with records can use new production techniques with confidence to expand operations.

Save both time and money by putting your corn picker in to good shape before harvest. What's more, a picker that does a good job without excessive clogging won't tempt you to try to clean it while it's running. Start by checking the gathering chains and snapping and husking rolls for wear.

Lowest harvest losses from a corn picker or combine occur when the moisture in corn is between 21 and 26 percent. As the corn dries below 21 percent, the field losses increase, report University of Illinois agricultural engineers.

If your corn picker doesn't pick as cleanly as it used to, worn snapping rolls may be the trouble. The snapping rolls should remove from one-third to one-half of the husks.

Hints For Homeowners

BY: JAMES FIZZELL

Ass't. Farm Adviser

The fall season is the most spectacular of Mother Nature's seasonal displays. In a last effort before winter, all the plant kingdom seems determined to outdo itself in a show of color.

The color is a result of an uncovering of pigment which have been masked all year by the more abundant chlorophyll. When the chlorophyll dies, the full color is revealed.

The most colorful of all trees in our area is the sugar maple. Its colors range from deep yellow to orange, and red. These trees are easily identified even from a distance by the indenting of their color.

Other trees showing good yellow color, but not so deep and intense are the poplars, silver maples, elms, and ashes.

Red is a common fall color and is found in a number of different plants. It is deepest in color in the Japanese maple and the roadside sumacs. Burning bush, probably the same one mentioned in the old testament; flowering dogwood; red maple and red oak can also be counted on for a good display. The leaves of oak trees often display a deep bronze or rich brown color which persists long into winter.

Leaves are not the only colorful aspect of plants. Fruits and berries as well as twigs are often very colorful. No one can deny the beauty of a mountain ash, a highbush cranberry or a crabapple covered with brilliant red or orange berries. Even ground cover and vines can provide color in this category. Pyracantha and bittersweet are grown for their berries which often last all winter.

Red twig and yellow twig dogwoods as their names imply display their characteristics when the leaves fall and the stems are revealed.

Fall is the time to plant trees and shrubs. Visit your local nursery and see the fall color of the plants you want to buy. Most nurseries allow customers to pick out and tag their trees which are dug later when the leaves fall.

Take a drive through the forest preserve and see if you can identify the most colorful plants. You can get a free booklet called "Forest Trees of Illinois, How to Know Them" by writing this paper. Ask for the trees booklet offered in "Hints for Homeowners"

The next monthly meeting of the Bingo Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Walter Plumly of 19333 South Oak Street on the night of Nov. 2, at 8:00 p.m. Bobby Burdett, the five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burdett of 9442 West Hickory street is well on the mend from a good "dose" of the mumps.

Mrs. Hyman Kronick of 9437 West Pine street had a pleasant surprise for her birthday, when her mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Sowle came in from their home in South Bend, Ind. along with Mrs. Kronick's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fricker, and their twin children, Jan and Jon. After spending the day here they all returned to their homes that evening.

Bruce and Nancy Pegrem moved into Arbury Hills from Country Club Hills with their three children, Bruce, Jr. who is four, Cynthia who is two, and Jeffery who is almost one year old.

They now reside at 9325 West Willow Lane, and Bruce, Sr. commutes daily to his job for Public Finance company in Chicago. They have been here now for a little less than one month, and seem to be quite satisfied with their new home.

Joliet Woman Will Address Club Group

Mrs. Bess Bassett of Joliet, will be the honored guest and the speaker at a meeting of the Frankfort Woman's club at 8:00 p.m. in St. Peter's church parlors, Thursday, Oct. 19. She will present a travelogue entitled "Round the world on a tramp steamer".

As this meeting will be the annual membership drive each member is asked to bring a guest.

Program chairman, Mrs. Glenn Ferrell, will be assisted during the evening by Mesdames; Herbert Folkers, Ray Putman, Lester Heisner, Lee Robinson, H. Robinson, James Parker and Robert Fredin.

A record number of American tourists arrived in Greece during the first three months of this year. The figure - 11,680 - compares with 9,765 Americans who visited Greece in the first quarter of 1960.

ORLAND C. OF C. GOLF OUTING was a lot of fun, participants will attest. The mayor of Orland Park, W. R. Schussler (No. 1 photo) put wings on this wood shot from the fairway, the photographer said.

Two from the Andrew Corporation are in No. 2 picture, Dr. Richard Yang (putting) while J. S. Brown watches. Those lines on the green are parts of circles drawn around the cup. This was known as the "betting hole." As far as the Chamber of Commerce treasury is concerned this could be called the "profit hole."

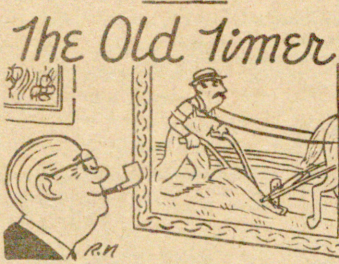

In No. 3 is Lefty Van Enblom who was reported to have been right down the middle of every fairway -- but not in order. In No. 4 Bob Ivins is on the first tee, ready to begin as his partner Gene Hartneck looks on.

No. 5 marks the end of hope that some lucky golfer would score an ace on No. 18 and win a new Ford offered as the prize for the event by Cooper-Show Agency of Frankfort. They were saying that if anybody could get a hole-in-one on the 18th it would be Don Cleveland, just finishing his shot. But he didn't. The other players are John Ludwig, Bob Hewson and Dale Strand.

And in No. 6 photo Orland Park's building inspector and Mercury dealer Bob Miller is lining up a putt. He not only has the green to overcome but also a whammy loosed by Harold Meyers. The others, both skeptical regarding Miller's talent as a putter. Did he make it? Of course he did -- or didn't he -- hmm-m, well now, come to think of it the photographer didn't say.

Get Big Welcome, Hawaiian Style, After Island Trip

The Ritt restaurant at Frankfort went Hawaiian last Sunday. There was Hawaiian music; the waitresses were in colorful muu-muus, and the men guests were attired in equally colorful shirts. The occasion was the return of Mrs. Walter (Toni) Ritt and Mrs. Anton (Ma) Ritt, from a two week's vacation in Honolulu.

Toni was the recipient of an award made at the St. Mary fiesta last July. It was a vacation for two in the 50th state, including air passage. She chose her mother-in-law as her companion.

The trip was not only a delight from a vacation and sight-seeing standpoint, Toni said, but also served as a reunion for "Ma's Ritt and a daughter, Mrs. Jack Kaufmann, and Mr. Kaufmann, Mother and daughter had not seen each other for 12 years. The Kaufmanns met the travelers at the airport and during their stay took them on a complete tour of Ohau. The tour carried them into the Tantalus mountains where they picked guava and avocado; thru pineapple and sugar plantations; the beach of Waikiki, of course; many restaurants; the Iolani

Sandburg Music Parents Will Meet Next Monday

The Music Parents Association of Carl Sandburg high school will meet next Monday, Oct. 16, at 8 p.m. in the "band room" of the school to greet old friends and parents of new students participating in the varied music program available at Carl Sandburg.

The Carl Sandburg music department is expanding and this year an orchestra has been organized under the direction of Charles Rullmann. In addition, Mr. Rullman also assists the band director, Milton Potter.

Mrs. Mary E. Pettyjohn is the choral director of the music department which is to enrich and nurture the musical ability of Sandburg students.

The Music Parents Association was originally organized to cooperate with the music department and serve as a supporting arm to help raise funds for items necessary for the betterment of the music program of the school. Final preparations for the first concert of the current school year are in full swing.

The concert will be presented by the band and choral departments on Nov. 3.

An interesting and informative program is the continued aim of the Music Parents, the officers said, and they contend attendance at the meetings should be a must to all parents of music students at Sandburg and other adults interest in furthering the music program of the school. A social hour with refreshments, closes the evening.

Officers elected for the current year include Norman Martin, president; Fred H. Wiley, vice president and program chairman; Mrs. Hubert Lappe, 2nd vice president and membership chairman; Mrs. Joseph Yurtis, secretary; and Dr. Floyd J. Hirth, treasurer. 50 N. Lenox Phones To Escape Mileage Costs

Elimination of extra charges now paid by 50 telephone customers near New Lenox has been proposed by Illinois Bell. The telephone company has filed a tariff with the Illinois Commerce Commission in Springfield to enlarge its base rate area.

When effective the tariff changes will permit other telephone users in the area being added to the New Lenox base rate area to have urban, or city, type service without payment of an extra mileage charge.

Don F. Memler, local Illinois Bell manager, said the change will be effective Oct. 19.

Customers affected are located in an area extending north off the northeast corner of New Lenox. The area, approximately 1 1/4 mile wide, runs north from Hickory Creek through Marley and Hadley.

Fifty of these customers have been paying extra mileage charges since they have lived outside the company's base rate area. They will no longer have to pay this charge. Another 63 rural residence customers and one rural business customer in the area have ordered urban type service.

Joliet Chemists To Tour New Glass Center

Prior to the tour, a dinner will be served in the plant cafeteria located in the recently dedicated Research and Development building starting at 6:30 p.m.

LWV Offers TV Course On Government

The Palos-Orland League of Women Voters would like to call attention to a very worthwhile course offered on week-day morning on NBC television from 6:30 to 7:00 a.m.
Continental classroom is the name of the series and the subject for discussion is "The structure and functions of American Government." The course is given by Dr. Peter H. Odegard, professor of political science at the University of California at Berkeley and from time to time, distinguished lecturers from the field of government.
In addition to offering this course as a full academic credit for college students, the course will be directed to teachers of secondary schools and to the general public.
Mrs. Robert J. Phillips, president of the League of Women Voters of the United States said, "We often hear it said that the American people are apathetic and that they do not accept either the responsibilities or the opportunities implicit in self-government. If this is true one of the main stumbling blocks it seems to me is a lack of understanding of the processes of government and of ways in which individual citizens can be effective."

The new Continental classroom course offers an unparalleled opportunity not only to those who feel a lack because they have never had a course in American government but to those who have had such a course in the past and would like to re-explore the theories and principles underlying our form of government in the light of their own experience as citizens.

Chicago Offers Another Week Of "Fun For Free"

(CNS) Fun for free fans have another week of interesting free features in Chicago land.
At the Museum of Science and Industry there's a model of the human brain displayed for the first time for the general public. It is 24 feet in diameter, 12 feet tall, has 45,000 tiny light bulbs, and 40 miles of wiring. This model has been described as the clearest demonstration of how the brain functions.
Also in the museum's main rotunda is a scale model of a spacecraft designed to carry a crew of seven to Mars — and back!

Bonfire, Rally, Hop To Lead Off Homecoming

Homecoming activities at Carl Sandburg high school will get underway Friday evening at 7:30 with a bonfire and pep rally at the south end of the football practice field. When the fire and the yelling dies down the students will retreat to the gym for a "sock-hop".
The highlight of the two day program which has been planned by the student council under the direction of William Wright, will be the varsity football game at 2 p.m. on Saturday. The Eagles clash with the Knights from Lincoln-Way in a Southwest Suburban Conference contest.
Sandburg takes a 3-1 record into the game while Lincoln-Way, having won impressively in their opener against Lemont, has since lost two and tied one.

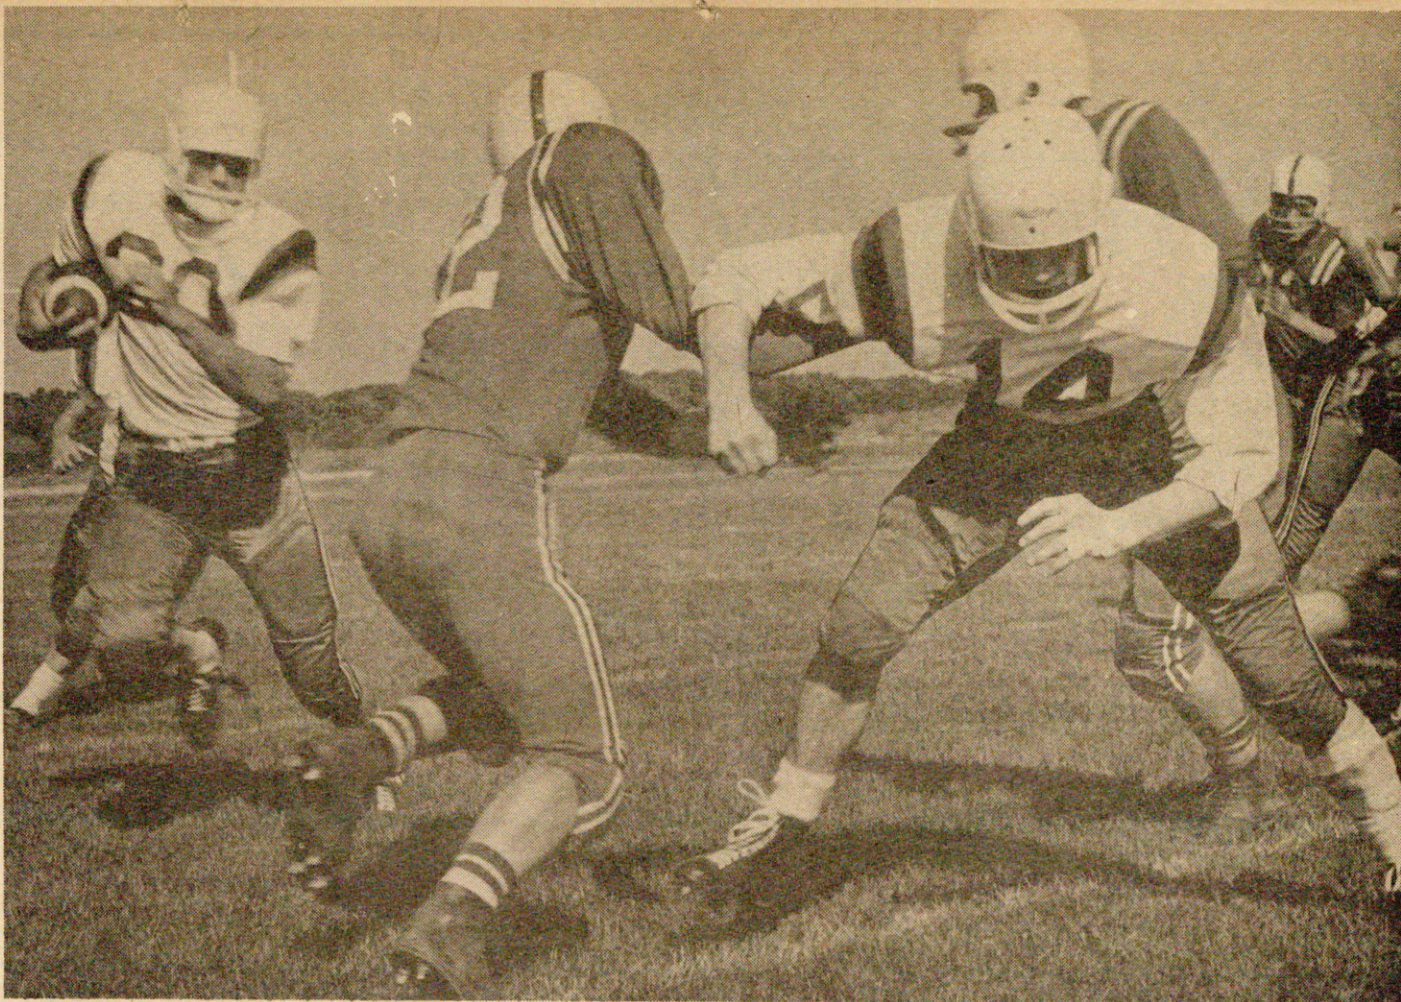

The Eagles, last year's conference champions, will be trying for their eighth straight homecoming win. They have yet to be beaten in a homecoming affair and they have won all previous encounters with Lincoln-Way. Even with that record coach Joe Devine states that he has great respect for any team coached by his old friend Jonas Lashmet so his Eagles will be proceeding with caution.
The fans will be watching for some fine running and passing by the Knights' outstanding athlete Ron Yunker and the Eagles sophomore sensation Ernie Sharpe, who is currently the leading scorer in the conference should supply some thrills. This promises to be a real good game between two spirited teams.

The frosh-soph football game starts at 12:30. The L/W frosh-sophs have won two and lost one. The Sandburgs have a 1-1-1 record.

A parade complete with floats made by various classes, clubs and organizations and band music will take place between halves of the varsity football game.
Saturday night, starting at 8:30, the homecoming dance will be held in the school gym. There old friends and school chums will meet to reminisce about the good old days and how they wish they were back in school. The Saturday night quarterbacks can replay the football game explaining what they would have done in a particular situation.

Couple To Wed Oct. 28

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bettenhausen announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Claudette Fern, to Owen C. Bosard, son of Mrs. Amanda Bosard of Mokena. The marriage will take place at 4 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 28, in the Tinley Park Methodist church. Some invitations have been issued, but all friends are invited to attend. A reception will be held at the home of the bride.

Eagles Tie For 2nd With Win Over Evergreen Park

The Carl Sandburg Eagles went north last Saturday and wrangled the Mustangs of Evergreen Park to the tune of 27-6.
Ernie Sharpe, sophomore half-back counted 21 points with three touchdowns and three P. A.T.s to take the scoring lead in the Southwest Suburban Conference.
In the first quarter, on Sandburg's second play from scrimmage, Sharpe went 55 yards on a wide, off tackle sweep for the Eagles first tally and the first kicked the three extra points. Evergreen Park reared up in the last quarter for their only tally. Denny Truedelle going over from the five.

The Sandburg's defensive team led by Tom Richter, playing the "monster man" and Jim Seymour kept the Mustangs in check most of the day while the offensive unit opened gapping holes for the backs, Frank Melott was outstanding as an offensive lineman, making numerous key-blocks for the ball carrier. Dan Wasick, in addition to averaging nearly four yards a carry, supplied some fine blocking for teammate Sharpe, who averaged almost 11 yards a try in 11 plays from scrimmage.

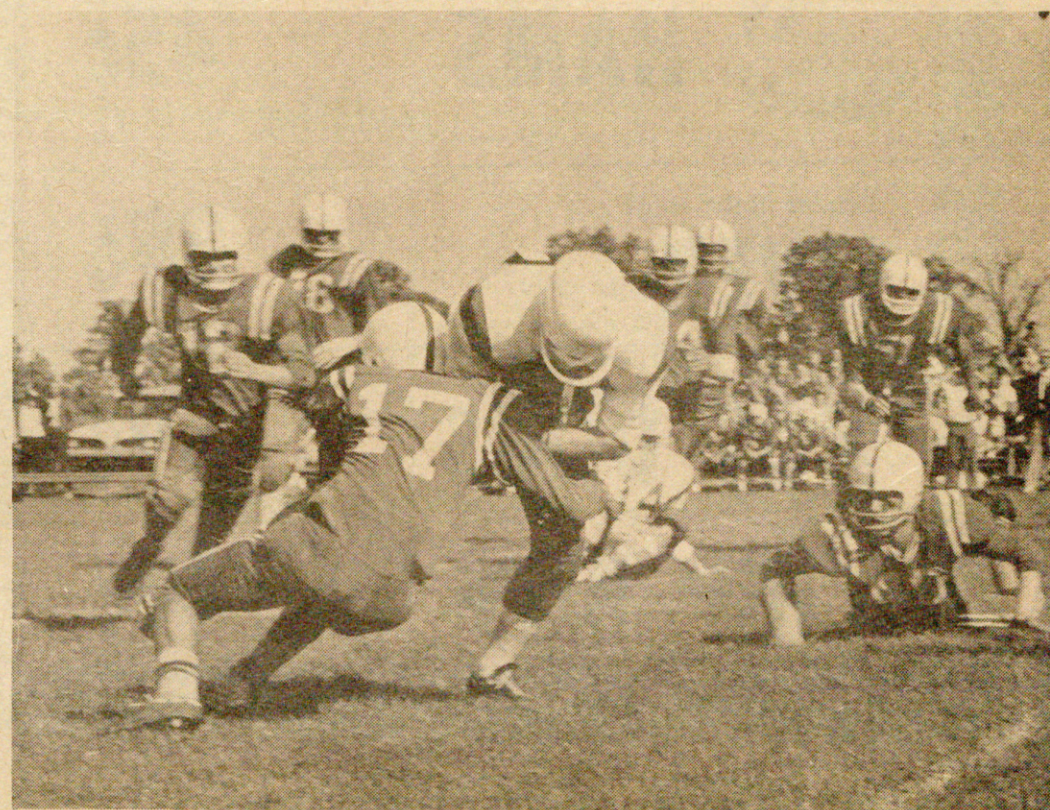

Quarterback Jim Lavine completed two passes of seven attempts for 41 yards, while his stand — in Albers threw two aerials, one good for 10 yards. Sandburg meets Lincolnway Saturday at home. The game starts at 2 p.m.

Former Orland Man Gets Film Story Of Carla

BY LAWRENCE V. SMITH
I am quite sure that back in the mind of every motion picture cameraman, director or producer is the secret desire to work for one of the great production companies of Hollywood. It usually is a secret desire because most of these men realize that only in their wildest dreams will this desire come true. For me, it came true not in a wild dream, but in a nightmare called Hurricane Carla, and the Hollywood production company was named Walt Disney Productions.

You may ask yourself what Walt Disney, better known for mice and ducks, would want with a Hurricane. I certainly asked myself this question. This hurricane and many other fascinating subjects will be the basis for his new one hour color show starting this fall on television. Of course the hurricane's name will not be Carla, and the story will have a plot, but although the name will be changed, and the story fictionalized, the time and the place is - September 11, Galveston, Texas.

I always wonder how I got involved in adventures so far from my present home in Jacksonville, Fla. A couple of years ago it was the Cuban Revolution 600 miles South of here. This time it was Hurricane Carla, a thousand miles to the West. I guess it all boils down to three things - being equipped to handle such an assignment, being ready to leave after a quick phone call, sometimes in the middle of the night, and being experienced in the type of filming that needs to be done. Being equipped and being ready are a matter of logistics, but experience in this case meant the memories of Hurricane Helene in 1958, Hurricane Gracie in 1959, and Hurricane Donna in 1960. All three of these major hurricanes I covered for NBC and CBS Television News. But being experienced is not enough when you are trying to get your foot into Hollywood's door. It still takes that certain stroke of pure luck. Mine came when one of Walt Disney's production crews was working here in Jacksonville filming some sequences of the Hurricane Hunters, a Navy squadron based here, whose mission is to fly into a hurricane while it is still at sea in order to gather information so that its course and wind velocities may be determined.

Since I had flown many times with the Hurricane Hunters to numerous Hurricanes they were quite familiar with my work, and mentioned it to Disney's producer. At this time Disney was hunting for cameramen who were familiar with hurricane filming. After viewing the color footage I had shot in Miami during the height of Hurricane Donna, the producer not only bought all the footage I had but hired me to film the next major hurricane that struck the American coast. Of course this hurricane was Carla, and the rest is history.

September 7 found us in Mobile, Alabama debating whether to wait and see if Carla would come inland in the East Gulf or in the West Gulf. Late that night we decided to head towards New Orleans where we could be in direct contact with the New Orleans weather bureau for any late advisories indicating a change in the direction or intensity of the hurricane. Most hurricanes, when they reach the wind velocities of Carla, at this time in excess of 125 miles per hour, have a tendency to slow down, even stop, reintensify, and make abrupt changes in direction.

After watching the eye of the storm on the radarscope of the New Orleans weather bureau for a couple of hours and noting its general tendency towards a north by northwest course, we felt that our best chance lay in reaching some city on the upper Texas Gulf coast. We had two choices, Galveston or Corpus Christi. The hurricane was now heading for a point between these two major Texas cities. We chose Galveston for three reasons. First, it was a big town with tall buildings, and being so would offer a refuge to many people living in low-lying areas around it. We were to film a hurricane and its effect on people, we needed these people. Second, it would lie in the northeast quadrant of the hurricane; this area of a hurricane is noted its highest tides, greatest rains, and strongest winds. Unlike all the rest of Galveston's inhabitants, we came looking for a storm, not for a refuge from one. Our third and last reason was that Galveston was built right on the ocean, with its 16 foot seawall forming one edge of an ocean highway which spanned the south coast of the island. This road would not only provide us with a method of transportation, even at the height of the storm, (it did for most of the storm, until it too was crumbled in many parts) but also the waves breaking over it would provide us with the pictorial background which we would need for many of our shots.

Saturday morning found us already feeling gale force winds of Carla, who was still almost 300 miles away in the Gulf. To feel the effects of a storm while it is still this far out at sea could mean only one thing - we had really picked the time and the place, Carla was really a big one.

Saturday afternoon found Galveston without electric power, and all the things that go with it, things we all take for granted - running water, refrigeration, elevators, communications, hot food, electric razors, and last but not least, electric lights. Have you ever tried stumbling up six flights of stairs, and down two blocks of corridors with a 100 mph wind tearing thru broken windows, sucking out candles, matches, and cigarette lighters? Well I did. Our time for the course was about 35 minutes, only to be rewarded with a room whose carpet floated in three inches of water which had blown in around and through a window which was still painted shut. Such are the inconsistencies of a hurricane.

Sunday morning found us driving around a ghost town, inhabited by wind, water, and waves which broke over our car as we fought the hurricane force winds now blowing at 125 miles per hour with gusts up to 150 mph at times. I say driving, it was really aiming. You don't drive a car in winds like that, you are driven. It was a ghost town because sensible people were all inside what few buildings which would be safe in such a storm. We would like to have been sensible too, but we came to find a hurricane, and we almost found too much.

All Sunday night the hurricane intensified. The hurricanes I had been in before, Helene, Gracie, and even destructive Donna, blew strongly for 3 or 4 hours and then passed inland to break up, but not Carla. She had been blowing at hurricane velocity for two days now in Galveston.

What little sleep we could catch Sunday night was constantly punctuated by the explosions of windows being shattered throughout the hotel. Two days now without fresh water or warm food, and with little sleep found us a pretty haggard and worn bunch of cameramen, already beginning to mutter to ourselves "I wonder why I got into this".

Monday morning we were awakened by what seemed to be someone knocking on the outside wall, quite a feat, as we were on the sixth floor. What we could see outside through what was left of our storm shutters over our broken windows just about froze our blood. The waves which now were breaking over the sea wall and hitting our hotel were being lifted by the 150 mph winds and were being carried up as high as our hotel which was 11 stories high. As if this weren't enough, these waves were hurling pieces of pilings the size of railroad ties against the side of the hotel. It was these dull thuds which had awakened us. I don't know which took more guts - to stay in the hotel or go out in the storm. We chose the storm, I think because we thought it might be safer than staying in the hotel.

You don't move in a hurricane with gusts up to 170 mph, it moves you! It is solid, it doesn't give, you do. It took us about an hour just to get to our car, about a block away. Just to take one step was an effort. To take a step with a heavy camera case was a Herculean task. It took another 45 minutes to clear all the debris, broken limbs, and fallen wires off the car. For some reason the car started, why I don't know. After about four hours and only a couple of hundred feet of film later we gave up. You just couldn't do anything in such a wind. You put on your windshield wipers and the wind tore them off. The car drove sideways down the street when it could move at all, and each street was a tank trap. We finally got back within two blocks of our hotel and had to abandon our car in the midnight dark of a 12:00 noon street.

We fell asleep in our wet dirty clothes in our wet dirty beds only to awaken to a new horror, Tornado! At about 3:10 a.m. the whole hotel awoke to what sounded like a freight train roaring thru. Few realized what destruction this roar brought until daylight. A tornado spawned by the dying hurricane had touched down beside our hotel and then started its serpentine path two blocks wide thru the heart of Galveston. Each and every home, office, or business in its path was totally and completely destroyed. The wooden buildings looked like they had been shredded and turned into chaff by some monstrous drunken combine.

We went out that morning in what was left of our car. Three windows had been blown or sucked out by the tornado, leaving about six inches of water inside the car. We had gone out to film the aftermath of the storm, but such things become too personal, and we would find ourselves putting down our cameras and helping people sift thru what was left of what was one called home to find here and there a soggy shirt or pair of pants to be miraculously put on a pitifully small pile of salvageable items. It took a hard man to walk away dry-eyed.

I saw one elderly couple sifting thru what once must have been their home, but I am sure even they could not be certain. We looked at them and the few soggy belongings they had rescued, and we said to ourselves, "What is left for them? Where do they sleep? Where do they eat?", and we felt guilty because we slept in a wet dirty bed last night.

By Tuesday night the water receded enough to allow a con-

Increasing use of power on U.S. farms will help double our energy needs by 1980

Each year the nation's farms are expanding their use of machinery. For example, 40% more tractors are in use now than 10 years ago. Growing use of fuels on farms, as well as in factories, in homes, on the highway, and in the air is the reason why the nation's demand for energy will double by 1980.

Where will it come from? Much will come from present energy sources, some from new ones. Whatever the source, a large share of energy in its most efficient and usable forms will be transported via pipelines. Texas Eastern's Little Big Inch pipeline system, largest of its kind, delivers liquid petroleum products from Gulf Coast refineries to Midwest markets. Our natural gas pipelines, which stretch from the Mexican border to the Atlantic Seaboard, have capacity to fuel thousands of factories and heat millions of homes. Looking to the future, Texas Eastern is growing and diversifying today to meet tomorrow's energy needs.
